ABSTRACT

Data from the Residence and Migration of College Students survey for fall 1979, a part of the Higher Education General Information Survey (HEGIS), are presented. Data are provided for all institutions, publicly controlled universities, publicly controlled other four-year institutions, publicly controlled two-year institutions, privately controlled universities, privately controlled four-year institutions, and privately controlled two-year institutions. The residence and migration data are presented separately for all new students, first-time freshmen, undergraduate transfer students, new first-professional students, new graduate students, and new unclassified students. Information is also presented on full-time and part-time students enrolled in institutions in each state, student residents of each state, and students remaining in their home state to attend college, by level of enrollment and state. Additional tables "outmigrants" and immigrants for each state, and students outmigrants and immigrants for each state, and students remaining. Appended materials include: descriptions of survey procedures, imputation procedures, and tabular procedures; a glossary, a list of imputed institutions, and a sample questionnaire. (SW)

Foreword

The data in this publication were collected on the Residence and Migration of College Students (R&M) survey for fall 1979. It is one of the more difficult of the surveys in the Higher Education General Information Survey (HEGIS) to present clearly without misrepresentation. Although each student is reported once by the responding institution, the same student is enumerated twice – once in the State of enrollment and once in the State of residence or home State.

The basic tables have remained conceptually consistent since 1963. However, the data collected in fall 1979 differ from those of earlier surveys in that only full- and part-time first-time students were reported by level of enrollment in fall 1979 rather than all students by sex as in prior years. For this reason, numeric trends cannot be constructed. It is anticipated that the new design for data collection that began with the fall 1979 survey will be retained. Therefore, the tables presented here will provide the base year for a new data series.

The total number of students reported as first-time freshmen on the R&M survey was expected to correspond to the number reported on the 1979 Opening Fall Enrollment (OFE) survey. However, differences in due dates occurred, students enrolled in the summer of 1979 were omitted from the OFE, and the distinction between first-time freshmen and all freshmen was blurred. Therefore, the data reported by some institutions were not consistent between the two surveys.

Because of space limitations, some of the tables generated by the survey could not be included in the report. For these tables, only the table titles are published along with appropriate instructions for obtaining copies of the complete tables.

Appendixes

A. Survey Procedures

The mailout of the 1979-80 Higher Education General Information Survey included survey report forms for 3,188 institutions in the survey universe. Of these, 3,008 institutions sent usable responses, representing a 94.4 percent response. State coordinators and college and university officials who had not sent in their survey report forms by the due date were contacted through follow-up phone calls and mailgrams before the closeout of data collection. Data were imputed for the 180 nonrespondent institutions.

B. Imputation Procedures

Several methods of imputation were devised to construct data for nonrespondent institutions. Only in instances where a peer institution could not be identified were either of the other two methods utilized. Imputation procedures used were:

1. Peer Institution

A peer institution located in the same State was selected because of the following characteristics similar to those of the nonrespondent institution: control or religious affiliation; level of institution; level of offering; enrollment; academic programs; and rural versus urban location. The total number of first-time students for the nonrespondent institution was estimated using data from its 1979 Opening Fall Enrollment (OFE) report and the OFE and R&M reports of the peer institution. The total line estimate was then prorated among home State and other States using the State distribution of the peer institution.

2. State Average

A State profile based on reports from the respondent institutions was devised for each State. The profile showed the percentage of home State students and students from the other States, outlying areas, and foreign countries. The total line was determined by the ratio of R&M to OFE for respondent institutions, by control and level of institution and level of enrollment. This estimated total line was then prorated using the devised State profile.

3. Historical

When neither of the above methods could be applied with any success, an estimated total line was generated for a nonrespondent institution using the relationship between OFE and R&M data described above. This total was then prorated using the same distributional patterns reported by the nonrespondent institutions on their 1972 or 1975 R&M forms, or both.

C. Tabular Procedures

The tables present data for first-time students by national and State aggregation, by control and level of institution, by level of enrollment, and by attendance status. Tables 1-12 follow the same basic format, with column 1 listing the 50 States and District of Columbia, U.S. Service Schools, and outlying areas. U.S. Service Schools were tabulated separately and are not included in the totals of the States in which they are located. For outlying areas, only the sum of all areas is computed. Other columns include students enrolled in State, student residents of State, students remaining in State, and outmigration and inmigration of students, by State. Table 13 presents data for individual institutions by State and by control and level of institution. Tables 9-13 present data on foreign students.

D. Glossary

In addition to the definitions of terms presented on the survey form (see Appendix F, page 181), the following are offered:

Inmigrants – Students who come into a State to attend college.

Migrants – Students enrolled in an institution in a State other than the home State.

Net migration – The number of inmigrants minus the number of outmigrants.

Outmigrants – Students who leave the home State to attend college out of State but within the aggregate United States.

Students enrolled – Students reported by the institution being attended; i.e., all inmigrants and "remaining" students (includes foreign students).

Students remaining – Students who attend institutions in the home State (excludes foreign students).

Student residents – All students of a State regardless of where they attend school (excludes foreign students).

DEFINITIONS

MULTI-CAMPUS INSTITUTION. An organization bearing a resemblance to an institution system, but unequivocally designated as a single institution with either of two organizational structures: (1) an institution having two or more campuses responsible to a central administration (which central administration may or may not be located on one of the administratively equal campuses) or (2) an institution having a main campus with one or more branch campuses attached to it.

MAIN CAMPUS. In those institutions comprised of a main campus and one or more branch campuses, the main campus (sometimes called the parent institution) is usually the location of the core, primary, or most comprehensive program. GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

Proofread the completed report before returning it to the National Center for Education Statistics..

If exact counts are lacking for a particular category of students that should be reported, include an estimate for that group.

Do NOT fill out separate forms for extension centers. Only campuses with their own FICE code numbers should be reported on separate questionnaires. Extension students should be reported on the form for the main campus.

Do NOT include in this report:

(a) Students in noncredit adult education courses and noncredit extension courses.

(b) Students taking courses at home by mail, radio, or television.

(c) Auditors.

(d) Students studying abroad if their enrollment at the reporting institution is only an administrative record and the fee is only nominal.

(e) Students in any branch campus or extension center in a foreign country.

(f) High school students taking college courses.

(g) Students known to be enrolled concurrently at another college or university, if the latter will report their enrollment (to avoid double counting). Normally, the institution that will eventually grant the degree should report the student's enrollment.
